means for receiving a first request from a second user to designate a do not disturb status that is associated with the second user such that a group of first users cannot initiate a new instant messaging session with the second user, wherein the group of first users comprises a buddy list of the second user;

means for receiving a second request from the second user to designate a subset of the group of first users such that the subset of the group of first users is authorized to initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user while a remainder of the group of first users cannot initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user; means for the second user to receive a request from a first user of the group of first users to initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user; means for determining whether the second user has designated the do not disturb status; means for determining whether the second user has designated the do not disturb status; in response to determining that the second user has designated the do not disturb status, means for determining whether the first user of the group of first users is included in the subset of the group of first users;

in response to a determining that the first user is not included in the subset of the group of first users, means for denying the request from the first user to initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user, and displaying a message to the first user that the new instant messaging session cannot be initiated; and in response to a determining that the first user is included in the subset of the group of first users, means for displaying chat session windows for the first user and the second user for initiating the new instant messaging session with the second user.

Reasons for Allowance

7. Claims 1, 6 and 11 are allowed as amended above.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The closest prior arts of record issued to Appelman (US 6750881 B1) and Largman Tang et al. (US 5960173 A) together fail to teach or suggest "a computer implemented method for managing user status values in an instant messaging system, wherein the user status values indicate an availability to participate in an instant messaging session, the computer implemented method comprising: receiving a first request from a second user to designate a do not disturb status that is associated with the second user such that a group of first users cannot initiate a new instant messaging session with the second user, wherein the group of first users comprises a buddy list of the second user; receiving a second request from the second user to designate a subset of the group of first users such that the subset of the group of first users is authorized to initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user while a remainder of the group of first users cannot initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user; the second user receiving a request from a first user of the group of first users to initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user; determining whether the second user has designated the do not disturb status; in response to determining that the second user has designated the do not disturb status, determining whether the first user of the group of first users is included in the subset of the group of first users: in response to a determining that the first user is not included in the subset of the group of first users, denying the request from the first user to initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user, and displaying a message to the first user that the new instant messaging session cannot be initiated; and in response to a determining that the first user is included in the subset of the group of first users, displaying chat session windows for the first user and the second user for initiating the new instant messaging session with the second user” in combination with all the elements of each independent claim as presented by Applicant [See page 3 through page 5 of applicant’s amended received 09/23/2008]. Applicant argues that the prior arts together do not disclose or suggest the limitation combination of “receiving a first request from a second user to designate a do not disturb status that is associated with the second user such that a group of first users cannot initiate a new instant messaging session with the second user, wherein the group of first users comprises a buddy list of the second user”, “receiving a second request from the second user to designate a subset of the group of first users such that the subset of the group of first users is authorized to initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user while a remainder of the group of first users cannot initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user”, “determining whether the second user has designated the do not disturb status”, “in response to determining that the second user has designated the do not disturb status, determining whether the first user of the group of first users is included in the subset of the group of first users”, “in response to determining that the first user is not included in the subset of the group of first users, denying the request from the first user to initiate the new instant messaging session with the second user, and displaying a message to the first user that the new instant messaging session cannot be initiated”; and “in response to determining that the first user is included in the subset of the group of first users, displaying chat session windows for the first user and the second user for initiating the new instant messaging session with the second user”. This argument is considered persuasive as per 5th paragraph on page 10 through 3rd paragraph on page 12 of applicant’s amendment received 09/23/2008.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
